Family Introduction

FOR FAMILIES | TACOMA | PLANNED OPENING SUMMER 2027

Their school years may be behind them. Their best chapters are not.

Your scholar is an adult. You are still a parent. Every new chapter asks something new of both of you, and finding the right one is rarely simple.

Some programs focus on clinical treatment. Others are designed around intensive behavioral needs or aging-related care. But what about the adults in the middle: the ones who are misread, the ones who are underestimated, and the ones rebuilding after a brain injury? That is who we are creating ThrivePoint Academy for.

Adulthood should be about more than finding somewhere to spend the day. It should be about having a day worth spending.

Who ThrivePoint Is For

Adults 18 and older with mild to moderate intellectual and developmental disabilities, stable traumatic brain injury or neurodivergence, who are independent with personal care and take part in group learning independently or with adaptive tools.

What a Week Feels Like

Each day starts with Morning Circle. From there, scholars spend their time in hands-on Guilds and on projects they choose, alongside peers who become friends. They practice the skills adult life asks for: money, schedules, safety, getting around the community and speaking up for themselves. Each month brings a new theme, with community field trips throughout the year, and progress shows up in finished work, not just time spent.

Planned for Tacoma | 25 scholars at opening | Designed with step-free access in mind

Why We Built ThrivePoint

We spent years watching capable young adults reach the end of school and find nothing built for what came next. Some were misread: they seemed fine to everyone else, but saw the world differently, and their needs went unseen. Some were underestimated: people saw the disability first and expected too little. Others were rebuilding after a brain injury, ready to grow again but with nowhere to go.

We understand this chapter because we have seen how few places are built for it. So we built one. You should not have to figure this one out alone.

Three Guilds to Start

- Media and Entertainment: filming, editing and producing videos and podcasts about life at the Academy.
- Artisan Studio: drawing and painting, plus Open Studio time for jewelry making, polymer clay and soap making.
- Operations and Leadership: planning events, welcoming guests and building everyday home and community skills.

The Culinary Guild opens in Year 2 in our teaching kitchen. Scholars move through four mastery levels, from Foundation to Mastery, by showing what they can do.

Tuition

Standard tuition starts at $4,800 a month for the full Academy day, Monday through Friday, 9:00 AM to 5:00 PM. Every Guild room has one staff member for every five scholars, with scheduled on-site nursing support each program day. Your tour covers every option, along with founding-family benefits and protections.

YOUR NEXT STEPS

1. Join the interest list at thrivepoint.academy/interest. There is no cost and no commitment, and you hear first about tours.
2. Tour with us, or join a virtual information session.
3. Complete the Intent to Enroll. It is free and non-binding.
4. Meet with the Founder for an Alignment Conversation about your scholar's strengths, interests and support needs.
